Train with Top International Coaches

at the

Vancouver International Field Hockey Development Camp

May 16th -18th

Rutledge Field, West Vancouver

(March 9, 2020, Vancouver) –

The first VIFHDC provides world class coaching to players over three days of intense drills, skill development, and games. The camp is open to female field hockey players aged 14-18 from across Canada interested in raising their game. This camp is open to all skill levels.

A team of international coaches will be led by Netherlands born Tjerk van Herwaarden, Head Coach of Harvard University. Tjerk will design and run the camp with coaches from around the world including Field Hockey Canada NextGen Women's Head Coach, Patrick Tshutshani.

Athletes will also learn about opportunities to continue their study at an information seminar by Marina Meijer, Director at UStudy, a Vancouver based international education consultancy. Focus of the seminar will be on the education and varsity field hockey system in Canada and abroad, as well as the application process and funding opportunities.

This event provides Canadian players with a unique advantage in advancing their athletic and academic careers. Passionate players from anywhere in Canada are invited to attend the camp.

Saturday, May 16th to Monday, May 18th from 9 am - 5 pm each day.

Registration fee is $450 CAN for the three-day camp, which includes training, games, learning sessions, snacks & drinks. Register early, because space is limited.
